International Mother Language Day 21 February 2023

The annual International Mother Language Day was observed on 21 February 2023 by the students of Semester 6, department of Bangla Bhasa o sahitya with earnest solemnity. The programme was organized by the students with a sincere pledge to pay homage to the martyrs who have laid down their lives to save their mother language from the claws of fascist persecution. Our lady Principal had kindly agreed to be present at the session and presided over the programme. In her evocative address to the students and faculty, she stated that the celebration of one's own language significantly encourages our proximity to our culture and memories of childhood.
