Institutional Distinctiveness

Our Motto

येनाहं नामृता स्यां किमहं तेन कुर्याम ।

“What shall I do with that which does not give me immortality?”

is our guiding force.

The Mission of the institution is holistic development through inclusiveness that hinges on both academic excellence and personal growth by -

- promoting quality in teaching-learning.
- maintaining balance between education that promotes knowledge per se and training that imparts skills for employability.
- broadening the base of women's education in keeping with the framework of a pluralistic society.
- Inculcating in students a sense of community responsibility which would help them to become worthy citizens of the country.

IQAC Meetings held periodically and as much as necessary for discussing the issues and challenges of institutional development. Inclusive environment is sustained through various curricular and co-curricular activities which bring together students in true esprit de corps to share space and opportunities and showcase their talents. The mission objectives are sought to be met through the following distinctive initiatives -

- Faculty dedication to teaching and continuous assessment of students to understand the needs of students at different difficulty levels.
- Equal opportunities given to students to demonstrate their academic abilities such as through student presentations, competitions, class assessments.

Activities that Inculcate Values

The human mind tends to recall memories that carry a high emotional charge to them. When we commemorate a special occasion, we are essentially placing a mental bookmark on an experience, thereby making it easier to remember it in the future. The photos, videos and other forms of memorabilia from those occasions serve as triggers that we can use to re-live those pleasant experiences in the future. Observances create an opportunity to bring people and especially young minds together with the intent to educate, celebrate contributions of great men and women and to work towards a future that is inclusive of all people.

The Prime objective post-covid was to bring together students in true esprit de corps with the intent to educate, create a sense of fellow-feeling, create a sense of shared heritage, create a sense of both institutional and national pride, inculcate values and work towards a future that is inclusive of the entire student community of the college.

The context of the activity was appropriate. All offline classes and activities had to be forcefully brought to a standstill due to the pandemic and a few of the special observances were conducted online in the second half of 2021 and January 2022. But as soon as the college reopened fully from February 2022, special observances began to be observed judiciously inside the campus to re-motivate the students and inculcate a sense of togetherness.

- The Practice: In consonance with the situation of lockdown, a few observances were conducted online and quite a few were conducted within the college premises.

The film dealt with the pertinent topic of active ageing and optimism of life in an elderly - care home, with discussions on the concept of 'gerontology' and its research -scope, as well as National Policy for Older Persons, Govt. of India. ❖ Gender Sensitization Initiatives

Objective: To make our society, especially the young generation aware of gender equality, which is really critical in our country, given the context of population and development. Gender sensitisation program in educational institutions can cut through a wide section of student population, and hence create a wide awareness among the children, parents and other members of the community, about their roles and responsibilities towards the third gender, as citizens of the society. Education is a lot more powerful tool in bringing about this social change.

Context: To uphold and enhance this aforesaid objective and satisfy the need of the hour, a twin programme was arranged to project this particular issue of gender sensitisation with different perspectives. It actually promotes equality for men and women, by allowing them to know what is appropriate and reasonable for their gender. Teachers play a vital role in elucidating this very purpose in social life. The Social Awareness Club of the college organized a Workshop and a State-level Seminar conducted by well-known personalities in this field. Each projected this particular issue of gender sensitization in unique ways. Open discussions promote awareness about gender equality, by allowing individuals to view what is reasonable for their gender. Teachers are in a position to make their students aware of the necessity of gender sensitization through the process of classroom activities and interaction. They can make their students aware of the necessity of gender sensitization through the process of classroom activities and interaction.

Practice:

Workshop 1 - Beyond Gender Binary –Understanding Gender Equality conducted

This one-day workshop on 29/04/2022 in the campus. Sri Bappaditya Mukherjee, Founder and Director, Prantakatha, (a national NGO) was invited to throw light on the topic, "Gender Sensitization: Rights and Challenges", in this aforesaid workshop. He delivered the lecture with the following message, additionally highlighting the unique concept of "third gender", as well.

The highlights of the workshop - "Gender equality is a far cry unless we understand the gender inequalities and thus how to support in a systematic way, the weaker gender, to bring them to a level playing field, and that is gender equity". To reach that we must understand that post the famous NALSA verdict of the honourable Supreme Court of India, delivered on 15th April, 2014 which stated that, the third gender, needs to be given all possible support to keep the constitutional obligation of equality and justice, promised to every Indian. The students were made to understand gender equity and that too beyond binary of male and female. It is to be noted that, in the domain of Humanities and Social Sciences, sensitisation has been seen as an awareness informed propensity which aims at changing behaviour, so that it is sensitive to gender justice and equality. It is interlinked with gender empowerment as well. Sensitization through education induces restructuring of gender roles based on efficiency and helps realize higher productivity of both men and women in household and outside, through rational and effective use of resources. There are multiple themes which work upon gender equality, for example.,

- Gender mainstreaming in various fields
- Combat Gender stereotypes
- Preventing violence against women
- Achieving balanced participation of all genders in political and public decision making ; and many more.

The NCERT has developed syllabus and books across, to promote gender sensitisation in the school curriculum.

State-Level Seminar: Gender Sensitization: Rights and Challenges

The first lecture titled, 'Making and Unmaking of Gender: Human Rights of the Third Gender in India', and the second lecture titled, 'Gender Issues and Sexual Harassment at Workplace-Law in Higher Education Institutions' aimed at creating awareness among the student population, the future citizens of the country about gender equality, the need of the day, given the context of global development and the continuance of civilization.

The The first speaker Dr. Lopamudra Sengupta, Associate Professor and Head of Department, Political Science, Bangabasi College an went on to explain - "As a marginalised community, the transgenders in India have faced severe humiliation and discrimination and have been denied access from important areas of life such as family, education health, employment etc. this paper by tracing the complex processes of discrimination tried to focus on the need to raise awareness and bring significant changes in the minds of people. It also refers to a number of legal changes that have taken place in recent decades. However, one should be aware that unless legal changes are supported by social changes, no substantive change can be accomplished and gender equality will remain a far cry".

The second speaker Dr. Sangeeta Roy (Moitra), WBES, Assistant Professor in Law, Government Centre of Legal Education, Chinsurah, Hooghly, enlightened students regarding the UGC regulations. She elucidated that, "the University Grants Commission(Prevention , Prohibition and Redressal of Sexual Harassment of Women Employees and students in Higher Educational Institutions)Regulations,2015 was issued by the Ministry of Human Resource Department (University Grant Commission) on May 2,2016. In exercise of the powers provided by Clause (g) of sub-section (1) of Section26 and sub-section (1)of Section 20 of the University Grants Commission Act 1956 (3 of1956), the Regulation of 2015 was established, which shall apply to all higher educational institutions in India.

Put simply, the Regulations outlines higher educational institutions' duties in terms of preventing sexual harassment in the workplace. As the UGC regulations are statutory in character, they apply to all universities and institutions across the country. The institutions can use a variety of measures to ensure that students are aware of the redress mechanism as well as the appropriate people to contact and report problems. Reporting occurrences of sexual harassment can be done in a variety of ways such as posting notices on bulletin boards, establishing complaint boxes in easily accessible areas across the campus, posting anti-sexual harassment rules on the college website, and emailing students and staff. The Regulations are gender neutral and apply to students in general."

Outcome: The lectures delivered and the open discussions in the seminar on gender sensitisation enhanced and reoriented the very mindset and contributed towards a positive message that our student community was long awaiting for. It definitely modified the thought process of all involved, particularly the student stakeholders and helped them to look beyond the biological binary. Students were made aware of the problems of the third gender, their fears, their aspirations, their expectations and their challenges. Students were made to realize that the discrimination against the third gender is embedded in our consciousness and is aggravated by ignorance and insensitivity. The transgender experience is full of pain. They have a right to dignity. Cultivating a gender-inclusive classroom environment is of utmost importance to accord this dignity in the first place. The mind opening lecture on sexual harassment made students rightfully aware of different forms of sexual harassment, the legalities involved and the safeguard mechanisms in place.

The Covid Helpline of GMGC

This helpline has been a laudable initiative taken by the students and faculty. It helped the institution discharge its social responsibility during a time when illness, death and lockdown impaired the normal functioning of the society. It was during the devastating second wave when the NSS Unit-1 members geared up to launch the GMGC Covid Helpline which subsequently reached out to students and teachers, their families and friends and people all over the state of West Bengal even facilitating people stranded in other regions and struggling to return home. The activities obtained recognition from the MGNCRE, Govt. of India under its "Beat Covid Initiative" and "Each One Reach One" initiatives.

The main objective was to help people by using social media as a medium. GMGC helpline was created in WhatsApp on 5th May 2021 and currently that group contains NSS and non NSS students from various departments, ex Gokhalites, teaching and non-teaching staff, summing upto around 100 active members. A poster was circulated in every possible medium with contact numbers of the front desk members of GMGC HELPLINE, which operates in West Bengal. This helpline started with the initiative of NSS Unit but became operational with the effort of the entire college. From May 5, 2021 to this date the helpline has stayed open 24/7. This helpline was organized and divided into front desk members and back end verifiers. The front desk members would contact the patient family directly before handling any case and the back end verifiers would continuously verify contacts before providing any lead to the patient family. The main group had segregation and for each segregation, different WhatsApp groups were created. The four groups were:

1. Hospital Group
2. Oxygen Group
3. Blood and Plasma Group
4. Food Group

Now, each group had 2 front desk members assigned to them, 2 of them were further been divided into morning shift and night shift (12am-12pm and vice versa) and they would get calls accordingly. But the front desk members werethere in all the groups so that they could work in place of someone who became inactive due to illness. Each of these groups also contained a set of back end verifiers which were different for each group. Different excel sheets were created for each group where records of the contact and data were kept. Remarks about the response from hospitals or oxygen dealers or any source was maintained to make the work easier in future. The back end verifiers kept verifying these contacts as and when any patient family reach contacted them. So, by doing this, giving a list of numbers, from which half of them doesn't work to a distressed family, could be avoided.

About protocols, any sort of leads was not provided without patient verification to prevent misuse of information. Front desk members would try to communicate with the patient family as much as possible and try to be there for them and be empathetic in approach. Everything was done strictly following the government circulars and anything beyond that was prohibited in this helpline. The sole motive was to help people out in this dire situation by creating a network. The organization and maintenance of information were the key priorities of the GMGC Helpline.

Subsequently, NSS teamed up with the SES REC faculty members and the Department of Psychology to provide psycho-social support and counselling to the students who had suffered due to Covid.

Special Observances and Commemorative Events 2021-2022

The human mind tends to recall memories that carry a high emotional charge to them. When we commemorate a special occasion, we are essentially placing a mental bookmark on an experience, thereby making it easier to remember it in the future. The photos, videos and other forms of memorabilia from those occasions serve as triggers that we can use to re-live those pleasant experiences in the future. Observances create an opportunity to bring people and especially young minds together with the intent to educate, celebrate contributions of great men and women and to work towards a future that is inclusive of all people.

The Prime objective post-covid was to bring together students in true esprit de corps with the intent to educate, create a sense of fellow-feeling, create a sense of shared heritage, create a sense of both institutional and national pride, inculcate values and work towards a future that is inclusive of the entire student community of the college.

The context of the activity was appropriate. All offline classes and activities had to be forcefully brought to a standstill due to the pandemic and a few of the special observances were conducted online in the second half of 2021 and January 2022. But as soon as the college reopened fully from February 2022, special observances began to be observed judiciously inside the campus to re-motivate the students and inculcate a sense of togetherness.

The Practice: In consonance with the situation of lockdown, a few observances were conducted online and a great many were conducted within the college premises.

GOKHALE MEMORIAL GIRLS' COLLEGE

Mentorship Policy Statement

Gokhale Memorial Girls' College (GMGC) has adopted a Mentorship Program to facilitate enhancement of various skills of students, starting from the initial years of under-graduate study to a wider spectrum. Mentoring, at its core, helps one to grow as a person and become the best version of oneself.

Mentoring is usually face-to-face and conducted over a sustained period of time.

Mentoring in education involves a relationship between two people where the mentor plays a supportive and advisory role for the student, i.e. the learner. This relationship promotes "the development and growth of the latter's skills and knowledge through the former's experience"

Mentorship is crucial to high-quality education because it promotes individual development and growth while also ensuring the "passing on" of skills and professional standards to the next generation.

Mentorship programs are usually offered to support students in program completion, confidence building, and transitioning to further education.

This may involve helping students achieve their personal or career goals, introducing them to new ways of thinking, challenging their limited assumptions, sharing valuable life lessons, and much more. Ultimately, mentoring connects a young person to personal growth and development, and social and economic opportunity.

Both Direct and Cross Mentoring are conducted by the faculty in GMGC. Direct Mentoring is conducted by the mother department faculty and Cross-Mentoring is inter departmental.

The Rationale

Direct-Mentoring by a familiar faculty helps the mentee to shrug off inhibitions and fears and approach the subjects chosen in her under-graduate level with greater interest and attention, thereby contributing to the academic advancement of the understudy. Cross-Mentoring helps the mentee to share observations on teaching-learning experiences, aspirations, campus expectations and such others which she cannot share with her own faculty. Mentorship in both forms would promote a sustained faculty-student relationship to the ultimate benefit of the institution.

As envisaged and laid out in this policy statement, the specific benefits of being mentored in both forms of mentoring would include:

- being guided in a special manner in the chosen discipline;
- being encouraged and empowered in personal development;
- being helped to identify and achieve career goals;
- being helped to identify and fill in gaps in generic skills and knowledge;
- being able to harness life skills and social skills;
- being able to communicate the shortfalls if any in the teaching-learning process; infrastructure facility; staff demeanour; peer relations and such and express the desire for remedy.

For a successful mentorship program, the college strives to fulfil the following requirements :-

Drawing up the Scheme –

Mentees are the students. Fulltime teachers are the mentors. Direct mentoring would be conducted by own department faculty and cross-mentoring by other department faculty. All students should be assigned to respective full time teachers and all fulltime teachers to students

In order to carry out group mentoring successfully, a single mentor is matched with a cohort of mentees.

Identifying the responsibilities of the mentor and the mentees

From fostering confidentiality in the relationship to sharing core values, there are several responsibilities that both mentors and mentees should take on to cultivate a successful and mutually beneficial relationship. They are:

- Foster Confidentiality- A mentor should provide guidance and support, while a mentee should be coachable and willing to learn. Additionally, a mentee should have an open mind, be respectful and be able to take feedback positively. A good mentor-mentee relationship is built on trust, mutual respect and a shared commitment to learning.
- Recap and update - Mentees should always end a mentoring session by recapping the main takeaways from the conversation. It allows the mentor and mentee to establish an action plan for the future momentum into their next meeting. The following mentor session should begin with an update on progress on the action taken that was desired.
- Cultivate a Teacher and Pupil Relationship- A Mentor should not only serve as a positive role model, but should know how to offer guidance in an effective way. Likewise, a mentee should crave for this guidance and be teachable.
- Build Trust through Engagement- The mentor/mentee relationship is all about engagement. The mentors should teach by example and always lend a good ear to the mentees to unlock their inhibitions and/or the creative instinct of their mentees. Mentee should always be open to listening to exploring new creative ideas.
- Find answers to Open-Ended and Curious Questions - Mentees should feel free to question mentor with open-ended and curious questions—with due respect
- Facilitate Learning Opportunities - Mentorship is a transference of knowledge, so it is vital that the mentor is familiar with and adept at creating learning opportunities that correspond to the mentee's learning style. Mentors should foster a relaxed, yet productive atmosphere and utilize active listening skills.
- Getting Feedback both ways – Periodic feedback from the mentee is essential. Mentee feedback is important for the Mentor as the latter needs to know if the guidance he/she is providing is being absorbed by the mentee and if it is useful to furthering the mentee's understanding and knowledge base. Mentor too should provide a feedback on the mentees' progress.

- Follow-through – This is the responsibility of both the mentors and the mentees. Mentee's responsibility is to seek out opportunities and experiences to enhance her learning and communicating with the Mentor as and when required. Mentor should inquire as and when possible.
- Share Core Values – The mentor and the mentee should have compatible core values which can be shared for development of sustained mentor-mentee relationship.

Therefore the core actions of Mentors need to be as follows:

1. ask questions.
2. share ideas as Mentees value their opinion.
3. listen with compassion.
4. offer encouragement.
5. introduce mentees to values, ethics and real life situations.
6. willing to accept the mentees' viewpoints and offer constructive criticisms.
7. help in alternative interests and diversification.
8. help and guide students in a SWOC analysis.. It is the Mentor who can guide the student through a SWOC analysis of her potential, capabilities, aspirations, actions, prospects and inhibitions. Successful mentorship can help student to evaluate himself/herself on his/her own and cope with all difficulty levels.
9. be non-judgemental.
10. be honest and candid.

At the end of the mentoring process, a feedback from the Mentees would be sought, to see how much they have benefitted from the Mentorship programme. Student feedback on mentoring will bring out the effectiveness of mentoring and how much the mentors have been able to help young students to shape their personalities and guide them in achieving some valuable life skills, social skills, career skills and such others.
