Inaugural Song

Prize Distribution Ceremony

We present to you the act of “Chirosree”, which focuses on the theme of acid attack. This act revolves around the life of a girl whose mother had passed away long ago. She had a boastful personality and always held herself in a high position. Her family was affluent, and her friends were similar to her in terms of personality and wealth. She was generally rude to others, and especially rude to a specific girl of her college, as she is neither considered conventionally beautiful, nor is she rich. One day, while coming back from a party with her friends, she is harassed by a group of men, where she stands up for herself and slaps one of them. Later, in a fit of rage from being rejected, those guys throw acid on her face. Everybody is now scared of her, including her friends who had also abandoned her. She confides in the only person who showed her empathy, the girl she bullied so much, as well as a tree in her house that was planted by her mother. The moral of the act is to spread kindness, and show empathy to others, as life is unpredictable, and those expected might not stay by our side always.
